Frenchman Fired by the Vote

Of the Members

Of the French Chamber of Deputies

For a Violent Attack Upon the Government's Algerian Policy.

Denounced Two High Officials as Disreputable Men and was Excluded and Censured— Foreign News.

Paris, June 15.—There was an exciting scene in the chamber of deputies when M. Drumont, anti-Semite, of Algiers, attacked the government in connection with the administration of Algeria. When a vote of censure and exclusion from the chamber was proposed as a result of his remarks, M. Drumont refused to leave until a file of soldiers entered the house, when he retired, shouting "Vive l'Armée" and "Abas les Juifs." M. Drumont during the course of his attack upon various officials called the prefect of Algiers a wretch and declared that the minister of justice, M. Monis, and the minister of marine, M. De Lanessan, were disreputable men. The incident arose during the debate on an anti-Semitic interpellation regarding the recent uprising at Marguerite. The interpellation called upon the government to extend more thorough protection to French colonies. M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the premier, made a long speech in defense of the Algerian administration. The chamber adopted a resolution tantamount to a declaration of confidence in the government's Algerian Administration by a vote of 353 to 22. The senate decided by a vote of 237 to 8 to close the general discussion of the law of associations bill, and to proceed to a discussion of the articles of seriatim.

Dispatches from Peking say the foreign ministers are considering fresh proposals from Mr. Rockhill affecting the Chinese concessions, looking to the payment of the indemnity. The propositions concern minor matters, and may or may not be accepted, but until they are disposed of the ministers will not pronounce a decision as to the manner in which China is to pay the powers, though it is virtually settled that the British proposal will be accepted. All hope of the acceptance of the United States' suggestion to submit the matter to arbitration at The Hague seems to have disappeared.

ABOUT MR. LOOMIS.

Venezuelans Claim He Was Censured Denied at Washington.
Washington, June 15.—A dispatch from Caracas, Venezuela, says: "Local newspapers have published articles to the effect that charged affairs W. W. Russell of the American legation has been instructed to notify the Venezuelan government that the United States had severely reprimanded Minister Loomis for his conduct regarding the various questions pending between the two countries."

An authoritative statement, which disproves the claims made by the Venezuelan papers, is as follows: "Instead of reproving Minister Loomis, the state department has approved all his acts. He acted under instructions while in Venezuela, and carried out these instructions, and no evidence has been discovered that he deviated from them in a single instance. After his entire conduct had been carefully reviewed and examined, the most complete satisfaction was expressed as to his course."

Naval Officer

Severely Rebuked by Court Martial

For Scandalous Conduct Over a Bill He Owed to a Dentist.

Secretary Long Remits the Sentence of two Years Furlough Without Pay But Approves the Other.

Washington, June 15.—Captain Robert E. Impey, stationed at Mare Island navy yard, was sentenced by court-martial to lose 10 numbers in his grade, furlough without pay for two years and to be publicly reprimanded. The offense charged against him was scandalous conduct in having represented to a dentist that his bill must be reduced, as it required the approval of the treasury officers, whereas this was purely a personal matter.

Secretary Long addressed a letter to Captain Impey, advising him of his approval of so much of the sentence as directed a reprimand and a reduction in rank, but stating that the part of the sentence recommending that Captain Impey should be placed on furlough for two years was remitted. "Not because of any clemency which you are regarded as meriting, but for the reason that the department does not consider that the interests of the navy will be advanced by permitting you to remain in idleness for two years when the services of all officers are required on active duty." Captain Impey was ordered released from arrest and restored to duty.

STEAMERS

One Goes Down With Many Passengers Aboard.

The Crews of the Fleet of River Tugs and Spectators on Shore Rescued the Drowning Passengers.

New York, June 15.—The wooden side-wheeler Northfield, which has been in the service of the Staten Island Ferry company 38 years, was rammed by the steel hulled propeller Mauch Chunk, used as a ferry boat by the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The collision occurred just off the Staten Island ferry slip at the foot of Whitehall street, and in less than 20 minutes the Northfield, which was crowded with passengers, estimated from 800 to 1,200, sank at the outer end of the Spanish line pier in the East river. The Mauch Chunk, which was badly damaged, landed her two dozen passengers. Over 100 of the passengers of the sunken Northfield were dragged out of the water by people along shore and the crews of the fleet of river tugs, which promptly responded to the ferry boat's call for help. The police believe some lives were lost.

Shreveport, La., June 15.—The funeral of John Gray Foster, the young planter who was killed on his plantation by Prince Edwards, a negro, occurred here Friday and was largely attended. A majority of the business houses of Shreveport closed in order that their employees might attend the funeral. Among those present were Governor McMillin of Tennessee and Mrs. McMillin, a sister of the murdered man. Mrs. McMillin is bearing up wonderfully well under the ordeal. The score of negroes under arrest charged with complicity in the murder of Foster were successfully removed to the parish jail at Benton, and there is no further fear of mob violence. Edwards, who did the killing, is still at large and poses continuously in the field, scouring the country in every direction. It caught Edwards will be summarily dealt with. The excitement has been almost wholly allayed, and so far as the negroes under arrest are concerned no further trouble is anticipated.

Into Fifty Feet of Salt Water

An Old Drydock

Sinks With the Transport Ingalls.

The Vessel Was Crowded With Workmen When She Topped Over.

One Man Was Killed Outright and Many of the Others Who Were Injured Were Dragged Out of the Water.

New York, June 15.—While the United States transport Ingalls was in the balance drydock at the Erie basin, South Brooklyn, where she was about to undergo extensive repairs, she suddenly slipped from the blocks and capsized.

There were about 240 carpenters, machinists and other laborers at work on the vessel and dock at the time. It is supposed that the vessel was thrown from an even keel by ballast improperly placed or by the shifting of the blocks on which she rested, causing her to list to starboard, driving the shoring beams through the rotten walls of the old floating drydock in which she was cradled. Besides the mechanics and other workmen which crowded the vessel and dock, preparing her for a voyage to Manila, there were supposed to have been about 30 Italian laborers in the hold of the ship, shifting pig iron ballast. While the workmen were trying to escape the dock itself overbalanced by the weight, turned on its side and sank in 50 feet of water. A number of men were borne down into the water and jammed under and beneath the wreckage which rose to the surface.

Martin Anderson, a painter, was caught under the descending side of the ship and killed outright. Others were dragged out of the water badly injured or half drowned and hurried to the hospitals.

The Ingalls went into drydock to have about $50,000 expended on her repairs. The lock in which she was placed was very old, having been constructed over 50 years ago.

It has already secured options on several thousand acres of land in eastern Kentucky which contain virgin coal beds which will be developed. Some of the larger mines now in operation will be operated to their fullest capacity and many of the smaller ones will be closed.

ONE-MAN LEGISLATION.

President McKinley is putting in his spare time now deciding on the provisions of the Philippine tariff. The Philippine commission has made its recommendations and the war department officials have done considerable figuring, but it all comes back to the president in the end, as he is the whole thing under our new colonial system. The trade between the ten millions of the Filipinos and the eighty millions of Americans will be adjusted to his views of proper taxation. Of course it is not known just what the schedules will be, but some information about them is leaking out. It is reported that some time will be allowed to elapse between the completion of the tariff and the date of taking effect, but it has not yet been determined what this interval shall be. The chambers of commerce at Manila have asked that the interval be as long as four to six months, but President McKinley is said to believe this might result in excessive importations of those articles upon which duties are increased in the new tariff and the holding back of importations in those articles where duties are reduced. So long a time is required to fill an order from Manila for goods, even if the order goes by cable, that not less than two months would probably be allowed from the promulgation to the enforcement of the new schedules. This will probably give an opportunity for a little profit to those who are lucky enough to learn in good time what the schedules are.

The commission rates are chiefly specific, but it is said that these will be largely charged to ad valorem duties. The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, who is usually a pretty good prophet, predicts that on articles of the greatest necessity the ad valorem limit will be fixed no higher than 15 per cent, but on articles approaching more the nature of luxuries limits of 20, 25 and 30 per cent are likely to be fixed. In a very few cases, like the finest grades of decorated china and fancy glassware the rates may rise toward 50 per cent. The limit of 15 per cent will apply to a great variety of articles under the metal schedule, which it was found impossible to distribute equitably under specific duties. Tools and implements, cutlery, needles, pens, miscellaneous manufactures of iron and steel and of zinc, copper and nickel will be required to pay duties of not less than 15 per cent. In all these cases the specific duty will be collected whether it amounts to 15 per cent, or more, but where it falls below 15 per cent, ad valorem an estimate of the value of the article will be made and the amount of duty raised to 15 per cent. Plate glass and mirrors will be required to pay not less than 20 per cent, while the limit in the case of cut glass, watch glasses and similar fine products will be fixed at not less than 30 per cent. It is probable that the rates on precious stones will be fixed at 15 per cent, in order to obviate the temptation to smuggling. The rate on nickel will probably be made higher than in the provisional tariff prepared at Manila.

Such a list will be a marked departure from the avowed principle of the Philippine commission to put a high duty on luxuries and a low duty on necessities. If anything is needed in the Philippines it would seem to be tools, implements and machinery, and to put them at the same rate as diamonds appear absurd. In fact, the difference between 15 per cent, ad valorem and 30 per cent, ad valorem is a small one, if there is any reason in the distinctions of our own tariff. Taken as a whole the anticipated schedule has the appearance of a revenue tariff rather than one intended to benefit the Filipinos, either by encouraging their "infant industries" or by giving them cheap goods of the kinds needed for industrial development.

SMELLS ROTTEN.

Will the Republican administration of the city of Lima, which is now engaged in scattering the money of the tax payers of the city kindly explain: Why it cost $30.00 for meals furnished to prisoners in the city prison during the month of May?

In addition to the usual amount of bologna and hard tack was consumed, which made an extra expense to the city?

And during that period—the month of May—the total amount of fines reported as collected was $13.20; And no work was performed on the city stone pile during the entire month?

This is just in line with the policy of the city government to spend as much of the taxpayers' money as possible. But the people are commencing to protest against this waste of their substance and their protests will be more forcible when they are compelled to walk up to the treasury and pay the highly increased tax which will be extorted from them because the present council imposed an enormously increased levy upon the increased valuation of property returned by the decennial land appraisers.

A HOPE OF RELIEF.

The suggestion that was contained in Wednesday evening's TIMES-DEMOCRAT relative to the necessity of a Board of Control for this city has brought out expressions from hundreds of taxpayers who see in that proposition a hope of rescuing some of their property from the wicked, wanton wastefulness by the city council.

With a city indebtedness approaching dangerously near the million mark the council continues at each meeting to vote away more of the people's money with as much assurance as though they drew a salary for so doing.

The Dream of a Graduate

But it Sounds

Well as a Prophecy of the Future

A Widely Scattered Class Whose Members Mingle With the Planets

Is the Cleverly Thought-out Fancy of Those Whose Imaginary Powers Outrival the Author of the "Martians."

Among the several papers prepared for the class day exercises, which were a part of the program attending the graduating of the class of 1901, was the class prophecy read by Miss Bertha Wilhelm, and jointly prepared by Marion Smith, Randi Zeltitz, John Albert, Earl Swan and Floyd Mattice. While all the papers were good, the one referred to is of especial interest to the class because of its reference to each member, and the imaginary "sphere" he or she is expected to occupy. The conception is particularly good and its originality worthy of praise. That it may be preserved as a reminder of a happy occasion, the class prophecy is printed in detail as follows:

Class Prophecy.
When early in the 20th century an air ship was invented which could move outside the atmosphere which surrounds the earth, it was discovered that the resistance of the air being removed, an incredible rate of speed could be attained. By chemically manufacturing on board the ship sufficient air for all purposes, long journeys to the other planets could be taken.

The first expedition was naturally taken to the planet Mars. It had been established beyond a doubt that Mars was inhabited, but the character of the Martians was unknown, and it was uncertain whether they would be friendly to visitors from the earth. In the year 1910 the first voyage to Mars was accomplished. In the following year a system of interplanetary communication was established by means of electricity. By this wonderful invention a person on the earth could talk with a friend on Mars, as easily as he would talk over a long distance telephone. This had been planned and executed by the world's greatest inventor, Floyd Mattice.

In the summer of 1913 he had been for two years residing on Mars, perfecting his system. Walter B. Carnes was at this time in charge of the earth's end of communication with headquarters at Washington.

One afternoon in a conversation by the interplanetary telephone, they commenced to talk of old times, and the following conversation occurred: "Say, Walter, have you been in Lima lately?" "Yes, I was there last week." "Are many of our old class of '01 there?" "Not many, but I heard of most of the others from Carl Albert, who is mayor of Lima. He thinks there will be a reunion of our class there next year." "Is that so? Well, I certainly will be there unless Mars gets out of the Solar System. Let me see, there were 30 members of our class, were there not?" "Yes, 29 living and one in Philadelphia." "And so Carl is mayor of Lima, what sort of a mayor does he make?" "Oh, an A. No. 1. Indeed he is so efficient, it is no longer necessary for Lima to have a city council, police force, board of education, city engineer, health officer, or any city officials. He attends to all those little things. He has so established large industries in the city, which bring such revenues into the city treasury that it is no longer necessary for property owners to pay taxes, instead they receive a dividend each year. Yes, Carl makes a fine mayor. When I saw him he had just received a letter from Kenneth Watt."

"I suppose Kenneth is a violinist." "No, his fame as a surgeon has left little time for that. Habit is hard to conquer however, and it is reported that he wields the surgeon's knife with the same graceful flourish he once did the bow of his violin." "Do you know Walter, whether any of the girls have entered the profession as lawyers, surgeons, ministers?" "No, I believe our girls have all chosen more womanly careers. Viva Eaton is president of one of the largest girls' colleges in the country; her method of instruction is similar to that of Mr. Squeers." "How is that?" "Oh, the students assemble in the class room and parse the Latin verb, koko (coco) meaning 'to cook.' They are then sent to the kitchen and given a lesson in cooking. At next recitation they take the verb, sio-o meaning to sew, which is followed by a sewing lesson. So it continues each day, the students receiving a classical education and also one in domestic science. Viva always had tact. And did you know Jostie Snyder is the national head of the Red Cross Society? She goes wherever there is suffering. All that human aid can do is done for the injured. I heard from Laura Frail too, she is one of the girls who has chosen not fame but happiness. She met Prince Charming long ago in the guise of some nice boy. Of course it is not necessary to say that he was lucky and they always lived happily. Did I tell you I met Cora Biddinger in Lima?" "No, but didn't I hear she is another?" "Yes, a novelist and the striking feature of her books are, that they are so ingeniously written that whether you commence at the beginning of the book or at the end, hold it right side up, or upside down, read it vertically or horizontally, the meaning is always the same. In the busy of modern life, this advantage is greatly appreciated." "Why, I must have some of her books sent up to Mars at once. Are there many Lima people in Washington now, Walter?" "Yes, a fair number. Clara Povenmire is organizer in the great Cathedral here and Fannie Lawlor is just above."

"Above, how is that?" "Yes, you know what an air Fannie had of looking down on the rest of the world. She is quite above it now; for she lives in an air boat. It is anchored by a long cable to the dome of the capital building. Any bright morning I can look out of my window and see the boat."

"Up above the world so high, Like a blot upon the sky." "Well, Walter do you know all the news? Can't you tell me where Leon Lauey is now?" "Oh, Leon is the greatest ship builder in the world." "I always knew he would be."

"Now that air ships have taken the place of railroads, is even a greater enterprise than it was formerly, of course they all run by electricity." "Leon is well known as an orator, too, and it is his aim to become speaker of the house of representatives. But Floyd, there is one of the boys I can't hear from, and that is Charles Linson." "Oh, Charles is here in Mars now. He has a new theory of transmigration of souls, he believes that when people on earth die, their souls are re-incarnated in the inhabitants of Mars and after life here pass to other planets, making the round of the solar system before reaching the realm of the creator. He is here collecting evidence to support his theory." "Ah, just what I would have expected of Charlie. Are there any other Lima people in Mars?" "Yes, you know Earl Swan is here, came over in an air ship of his own, and has traveled all over Mars, preparing to write a series of magazine articles, entitled 'Queer Customs of the Martians.' He won't stay here however."

"Why not?" "Well, you see he started out to teach the Martians to play football. They are queerly constructed creatures, you know, and to see them try the game was better than the old Freshman Rhetoricals at high school. He soon found they could not use our footballs, because the attraction of gravitation is so much greater on Mars than on the earth. Then when he had gotten a ball of the proper size and density for the Martians to play with, Earl found that he could not manage it at all. The Martians enjoyed foot ball immensely, but after Earl had played the part of spectator awhile, he felt so homesick, he vowed he would not stay on a planet where he could not indulge in his favorite sport. I noticed that his air ship was named 'The Matilda,' so I suppose that high school romance ended happily."

"Yes, and Matilda is here, I met her the other day. I saw Alice Payden too, while I was in New York. She is a teacher of elocution and principal of one of the schools of expression."

"I want to ask you about another of our classmates, do you ever hear from Minnie Herold, has she, too, followed a career?"

"Well, my dear boy, don't you remember Minnie well enough to know she never was cut out for a career, but would be sure to be the angel of some one's home. She could have been one of the best singers of Grand Opera in the world, if she had gone on the stage, but she chose otherwise."

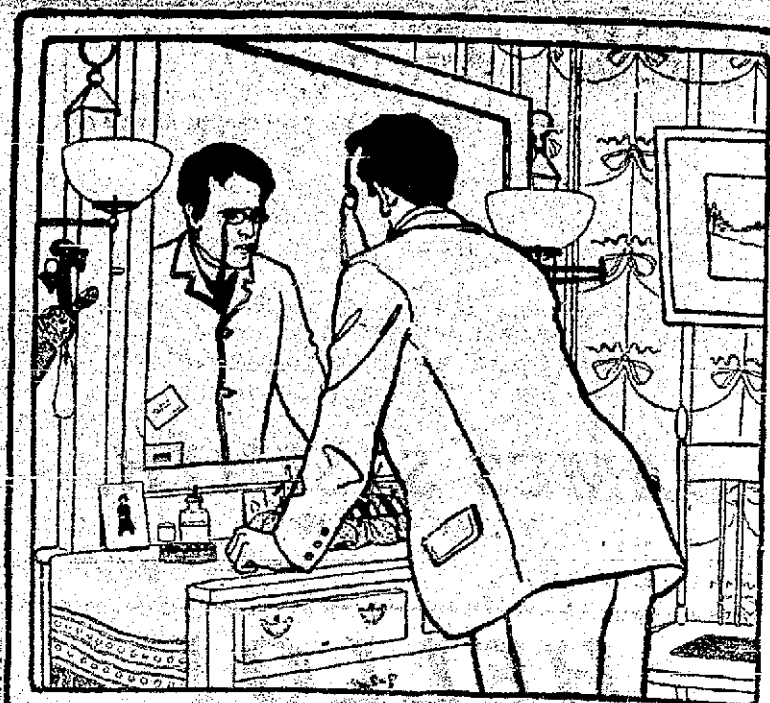

be Etta Johnson, she has just patented a device for capturing burglars. It is a great boon to timid persons, and houses all over the country are being equipped with it. It works this way, you have an iron trap with a string attached, when the alarm announces there is a burglar you lie low, and when he comes along, swing the trap where he will step on it. As soon as he touches the trap, it closes tightly around his feet. Then by adjusting the string to a pulley in the ceiling you jerk him quickly up, there he hangs till the police officer arrives. If a gang of burglars can be captured the effect is still better."

"Do you know, Walter, whether any of our old class chose an artistic career?" "Yes, Edna Goodenow is the most popular illustrator in America. I wish you could see her pen and ink sketches and her charming water colors. Helen Badeau has chosen another branch of art, she is an authority on interior decorations. I recently saw a high school room she had finished with soft tints, beautiful frescoes and fine statuary. It was quite different from our old idea of a high school room. By the way, did you know, Lima is to have two new high school buildings? The one erected in 1902 has long been inadequate."

"Is that the one there was so much discussion about when we graduated?" "Yes, it always went by the name of 'Our High School Building,' but it had to be erected in four portions, one in the north, one in the south, one in the east and one in the west of the city. These were connected by a system of elevated railways, and the pupils were hurried from one building to another for their different recitations. Yes, it was a little inconvenient for the pupils, but it satisfied the different wards. And if they had not done that way, there would probably not have been a high school building there to this day. But what I wanted to tell you, is that the new high school buildings are to be erected by Harry Oliphant."

"Oh, is he an architect?" "Yes, he has just finished the new capital building here at Washington, but is loyal to Lima still, he says, remembering his old experience in the Holland block, he has designed the new school buildings with numerous stairways, corridors and outside doors, so that should the janitor be so kind as Mr. Black was of old, it will not be too difficult for the scholars to escape from the building where they wish to attend funerals, engagements with the dentist, and so forth during school hours. He has also added a number of fire escapes to be used for the same purposes should other means fail."

"Well, I am not surprised, Harry always had an air of good will toward one. Tell me some more Lima news." "I met Lenore Detweiler, when I was there. She was at home on a visit. There, I forgot how names change, but we always knew who the lucky boy would be in that case. There was no guessing there. But I want to tell you how surprised I was this morning to meet Randi Zeltitz on the street. You know what a jollier Randi always was. She had a dozen devoted admirers that last winter in High School, she told me laughingly that she married one to get rid of the rest. She has been making a journey around the solar system, for you know trips to Mars were such a success that people immediately began voyages to other planets. Randi wanted to try the interplanetary telephone, so I told her to come in this afternoon and I would call you up and she could talk to you. Here she comes now, I will give her a chance. 'Hello' 'Hello, is this Randi?' 'Yes, how is the weather in Mars today, Floyd?' 'Oh, they make that to order here.' 'But won't you tell me about your trip around the solar system, did you meet any of the jolly crowd that used to frequent the Holland block when we were young?' 'When we were young, I would have let you know Floyd Mattice. There, there, I meant when we were children, Randi, I have heard, you look the same as ever and not a day older, but which planet did you go to first?' 'Oh, we started for Venus first.' 'Tell me about it.' 'Well, it was beautiful when we started, but when the earth faded away and became a mere speck, I had a feeling of the most terrible loneliness. Oh, how I wanted to come back. Just then a big blazing comet shot past us, I thought of all the danger there would be and was sure I would never get back to earth.' 'I suppose it took a long time to reach Venus?' 'Yes, indeed, but it was so beautiful there. Oh, I can't describe it. The only person I saw there I knew was Laurd Hirsland, she told me she belonged there and had gotten to the earth by mistake, she had been rescued however, and now that she was home, intended to stay. I wanted to stay too, but we had to leave soon for Mercury.' 'I suppose Mercury is so near the snow, it was very hot.' 'Yes, indeed, we did not know whether we would be able to alight at all, but when we came near, we heard a whizzing sound and arriving there found that Mercury was covered by electric fogs. As we stepped on the planet, I saw Fred Keuthan coming toward me.' 'Why, I thought Fred was manufacturing ice by electricity somewhere in

LOOK yourself squarely in the face and see if you are not half ashamed to be without Ivory Soap in your house. Worse than this, your wife is without it. It is bad enough for a man, though a man often doesn't care how his comfort is mis-spelled. But a woman misses all these little helps to housekeeping. And Ivory Soap is one; its great potency makes it actually cheaper than yellow soap for general work. It floats.

FIRST

Event of the Race Season

Drew Crowds

Of People to the Matinee Opening.

Interest Centered in Match Race Between Local Drivers

But All of the Races Had Points of Interest About Them, Which Kept the Audience Until Runners Appeared.

The racing season in Lima was opened in a most auspicious manner by the Matinee Driving club yesterday afternoon, the grand stand and course being literally packed with people. Hundreds of vehicles were on the grounds and the ever encouraging presence of the ladies added the finishing touch of color to the panorama.

The weather was just right and although a little threatening toward the middle of the afternoon the few drops of rain rather tended to add to the proper conditions than to detract from them. The track was still a little hard, the sun having baked the clay as solid as a rock after the deluge of a week ago, but it had been sprinkled and worked sufficiently to get a fairly good foundation, and the horses seemed to take to it fast enough.

The event was more in the nature of a reception, with the club as the hosts of the occasion, as everything was free; and while the people of Lima are liberal patrons of amusements, the immense crowd of yesterday was no doubt swelled to its unusual proportions by the announcement that no charge of any kind was connected with the affair. The program, too, was a good one, and although there was not a little complaint because of the time consumed in getting the horses to the scratch, the fact must be considered that the initial event of the season has its drawbacks, and the horses, yet a little green and not fully worked out, must be given extra care and attention at the stables. The intervals were filled in by music by Dana's band, and the boys were not stingy, two and sometimes three selections being played between the heats.

The street railroad company gave a much improved service, cars being run to the grounds less than five minutes apart and there were plenty at the gate to take care of the crowd at the close of the afternoon's racing.

The one race of the afternoon which possibly interested, or rather amused, the audience more than any other was the one between Horace Mann's Rammer and James Chevrant's Roller Wilkes. It was the drivers more than the horses who won the applause, and the two heats which awarded the race to Rammer, or rather to Mann, were full of pyrotechnics and situations which seldom figure in a horse race, even when it comes to green horses and green drivers. It took some time for the horses to warm up, but when once given the go, the prettiest race of the afternoon was promised, until the quarter was reached when Roller Wilkes went off his feet and Rammer came in an easy winner.

The second heat was very similar, Roller Wilkes again taking an ascent and Rammer going with him. Mann brought his steed down to the pace again in short order, but Rammer was out for a run and he covered a quarter of a mile at a mad gallop. Rammer was passed at that gait and when Chevrant came under the wire several lengths ahead with his runaway, the audience pelted with delight at the amusing situation. The judges set Roller Wilkes back and awarded the race to Rammer.

The summary which follows shows the result of the five events of the afternoon:

PARISH

Of the South Side Has a Pastor

Who Has Been Appointed by Bishop Horstman.

Rev. Father Rupert Will Assume the Duties of Pastor of the New Parish on the Thirtieth of This Month.

Among the appointments made by the Rt. Rev. I. F. Horstmann, Bishop of the Cleveland diocese, mentioned in this week's issue of the Catholic Universe, is one which is of much importance and interest to the Catholics of this city. The appointment referred to, is that of a pastor for a new parish to be organized on the south side. Rev. Frederick Rupert, of Norwalk, is the one named for the place. He was ordained to the priesthood twenty-two years ago, and is spoken of as a good financier and a man of marked ability. The appointment will take effect on Sunday, June 30th. The south side parish will be made up of all the Catholics residing south of Elm street, numbering about one hundred and twenty families.

FARMERS

Willing to Grant the Right of Way

To the Company Which Proposes to Build the Electric Line from Lima to Ft. Wayne.

Aaron Fisher and David M. Fisher, of Lima, arrived here Thursday evening, having driven over the route of the proposed Lima, Delphos, Van Wert & Ft. Wayne Traction company's line, from Lima to Delphos. They are taking options on private right-of-way, to hold good for eighteen months, pending the construction of a line. The gentlemen state they experienced little difficulty in getting 39-foot right-of-way through farms. Between Elida and Delphos only three farmers objected to giving land for the purpose. They left this morning to work between Delphos and Middle Point.

The route as proposed will bring the line through town on Second street, striking the corporation line east of the Catholic cemetery. The council has not yet been asked for the franchise for the use of the streets, but will be in the near future if the desired land between the towns mentioned above is secured. What the north and south line people are doing is a matter of conjecture. They seem to be active in and about Delancey, but how soon the promoters will reach Delphos is not known.—Delphos Herald.

FIGHTING MOSQUITOES.

How Dr. L. O. Howard Would Exterminate the Pests.

METHODS ADVOCATED IN HIS BOOK

One in the Application of Kerosene
 to Their Breeding Places—Drainage Another—How to Free a House of the Insects—Their Natural Enemies.

The elevation of the mosquito from the rank of a mere summer nuisance to that of a disseminator of disease has resulted in more serious studies of the insect than ever before were undertaken. Their object is the discovery of some method by which the mosquito
 may be destroyed, says the New York Sun. The latest work on the subject is by Dr. L. O. Howard of the department of agriculture at Washington and is entitled "Mosquitoes—How They Live; How They Carry Disease; How They Are Classified; How They May Be Destroyed." The book is published by Mc-Clure, Phillips & Co.

Mr. Howard, as the result of a number of years' experience in fighting mosquitoes, has reached a cheerful conclusion. He does not believe that there is any reason why a community should submit to the mosquito plague.

The work of exterminating mosquitoes Mr. Howard divides into three parts—first, the treatment of breeding places with insecticides; second, the abolition of breeding places by drainage; and, third, the introduction of natural enemies into breeding pools which for any reason it may be undesirable to drain or to treat with oil.

Before undertaking work against the early stages of mosquitoes in any given neighborhood there must be a thorough survey of the immediate surroundings to learn with great accuracy all the places in which mosquitoes may breed.

About houses the greatest care must be taken to examine every possible spot where silt water may gather. In the surrounding ground every permanent pool and every swamp area should be cleared and the method of treatment determined upon. Permanent pools not used for watering stock should be treated with kerosene, swamp areas
 should be drained, small depressions
 should be filled with earth.

Petroleum has become the standard agent for treating mosquito breeding water. In the summer of 1900 W. J.
 Matheson got very successful results
 by treating an area of several square miles on the north shore of Long Island with kerosene combined with certain drainage work. The army regulations in Cuba provide for the treatment of breeding places with kerosene, and the results are reported to be admirable.

The best petroleum for the purpose is found to be a light fuel oil. The lamp burning oil is too viscous to be long effective, the crude oil is too thick. "The oil is effective for from ten days to two weeks, when the application must be renewed. The army regulations in Cuba at first required the application of the oil once a month. Subsequently this order was changed to twice a month. The best method of applying it is found to be by simply pouring it upon the water with a watering pot or from a dipper.

As to the method of dealing with mosquito infested houses Mr. Howard says that first of all the house must be thoroughly screened. To kill mosquitoes in a house Perini and Lunbau recommend chlorine gas. Pour into a dinner plate containing four or five spoonfuls of chloride of lime five or ten cubic centimeters of crude sulphuric acid.
 This liberates the chlorine gas, which kills the mosquitoes. This plan can be used only in rooms which are not inhabited, or in which the vapors can be permitted to remain for several hours.
 The burning of pyrethrum powder in a room will also kill mosquitoes, or at least stupefy them. The pyrethrum powder should be moistened and then molded into little cones which are dried in the oven. When one of these cones is ignited at its summit with a match,
 it will smolder slowly, filling the room with smoke which, of course, people is not unpleasant. The Chinese use pine or juniper sawdust mixed with a small quantity of brimstone and an ounce of arsenic run into slender bags in a dry state. Each bag is coiled like a snake and tied with a thread. The outer end is lighted. Two coils are said to be sufficient for an ordinary room, and 100
 coils sell for 6 cents.

In the case of milldams, ice ponds, ponds for watering stock and other sheets of water where kerosene cannot be used the mosquito may be reached by the introduction of certain of its natural enemies in the way of fishes which will feed upon and destroy mosquito larvae. Almost all the small car-pinivorous fish which inhabit swamp ponds and still water will feed upon mosquito larvae. The stickleback is as deadly to the mosquito in its embryonic stage as are also nearly all kinds of top minnows. The common sunfish is another eater of mosquito eggs, and,
 having a very large mouth and a huge appetite, he does great execution.

A Great Telescope For Remedy.

It is reported that an American citizen, a member of the Roman Catholic church, has offered to present to the pope a telescope larger than the great telescope of the Paris exposition, to be established at the observatory of the Vatican, says the New York Sun. This observatory was founded before 1582
 by Pope Gregory XIII in connection with his reform of the calendar and has since 1888 been revived by the present pope.

GIRL'S PERILOUS TRIP.

Daring Arabian Acrobat Crossed
 Footpath on New East River Bridge.

In the teeth of a roaring gale such as would have tried the temper of the steel spars of the stoutest cup defender
 or slatter the nerves of the hardiest
 "jackie" that ever laid aloft to reef a topgallant sail a little woman, frail to view, but stout of heart, won the other sex to achieve the perilous feat of traversing the slender, swaying footpath connecting the towers of the new East river bridge.

The woman who undertook this hair-raising adventure is Miss Eva Voulett, an Arabian maiden, born in the city of Tangier, Morocco, now a member of Hassan Ben Ali's troupe of Toozounin Arabian acrobats. Miss Voulett, whose native name is Eva Azou, is now in her nineteenth year. She is a trifle below the middle height and of a figure every line of which is instinct with grace and supple strength. Her costume for the occasion was a simple bicycle shirt, a tartan waist and the national crimson fez and black tassel surmounting her curls.

"Afraid? I don't know what fear is!" was her response when seen by a New York Journal reporter after her hazardous feat. To appreciate the peril so dauntlessly faced by Miss Voulett!
 it must be realized that she had not only to ascend to the summit of the Manhattan tower, 330 feet in the air,
 but from there walk without a tremor
 of the nerves along the swaying, rapidly vibrating

SYSTEMIC CATARRH

And Grip Prostration Afflicts the People
All Summer.

UNITED STATES MARSHAL SIMMONS.

Hon. F. Simmons, United States Marshal, Mobile, Alabama, speaks in high praise of the merits of Peruna. In a letter written from Washington, D.C., he says:

"After having used Peruna for a short time I find that it is the most excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh ever prepared. I can heartily recommend it to any one." Yours sincerely,
F. Simmons.

Even a slight attack of la grippe deranged. Every function is disturbed. Appetite and digestion demoralized. Creeping rigors, hot flashes, cold sweats and fitful sleep linger to make life almost unbearable.

It is this condition that Dr. Hartman calls systemic catarrh. The whole system is saturated with catarrh. This discovery marked an important advance in the history of medical science. The medical profession had long been groping to discover the meaning of the stubborn and distressing after-effects of la grippe. All remedies seemed alike inadequate.

As soon as Dr. Hartman announced that it was his belief that the after-effects of la grippe was simply systemic catarrh, a great advance was made in the treatment of these cases. It now only remained to find a reliable remedy for systemic catarrh.

Here a new difficulty arose. Catarrh had been regarded by many physicians as a local disease and treated solely by local remedies. Such physicians knew of no systemic remedy for catarrh.

Other physicians regarded catarrh as a blood disease and had been in the habit of treating it with blood medicines, which could be of no possible use in systemic catarrh.

For a time Peruna enjoyed the distinction of being the only systemic catarrh remedy known. It was not even claimed by anyone that there was another remedy for this exasperating condition.

Since then, however, a great many remedies have been proposed for systemic catarrh, and a great deal of valuable time wasted in experimenting with other remedies. But it still remains true that Peruna is the only specific remedy for the after-effects of la grippe. The demand for this remedy, in consequence of the present epidemic of la grippe, is enormous.

Mr. J. P. Lowery, proprietor City Hotel Albany, Texas, says: "Being advised to try Peruna for la grippe and asthma, I did so with good results. I had been feeling very unwell for a long time, and had asthma quite bad till I came West, when I got better of the asthma, but was not well. I tried a great many remedies for it, but nothing was able to cure me."

"I took three bottles of Peruna and I am happy to say that it is the best medicine I ever used. I am satisfied that Peruna is a good medicine, and as such have commended it to several of my friends with good results. It is seldom I give a testimonial, but I think this due you. I hope others may be benefited through you and your medicines."

Every one should read Dr. Hartman's latest lecture on la grippe. This lecture will be sent free by The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio.

"The Theatre"

As Portrayed in Words
of Eloquence

By Dr. Henry Austin Adams
at Faurot's Opera House
Last Night.

A Magnificent Audience Hears the Lecture Given Under the Auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

One of the rarest intellectual treats of the year was enjoyed by a magnificent and appreciative audience in Faurot's opera house last night. The lecture on "The Theatre," delivered by Dr. Henry Austin Adams, under the auspices of the local council of the Knights of Columbus, exceeded the expectations of even those who knew and had heard the talented orator previously. The house was well filled with an attentive and interested congregation of intelligent auditors, who, after listening to the scholarly discourse for an hour and a half, unimpaired of the intense sultry atmosphere that pervaded the house, sat spellbound at the close, loth to leave without partaking more deeply of the speaker's eloquence.

As Dr. Adams himself said, at the beginning of his lecture, many who went to hear him last night expected to hear the stage and its influences and environments denounced and relegated to the long list of worldly things that are under the ban of good morals. Of this impression, however, the auditors were soon undeceived for Dr. Adams, in unmeasured terms, declared that he loved the stage and believed its influences to be great and good because in the good, clean tragedy and drama man sees himself pictured as he is. If the stage has degenerated and, as it has with many hundreds of the modern plays, become debauched from the standard that was credited for it by the immortal Shakespeare, who is to be held responsible for that condition? It is not the actor, nor the playwright, nor the manager. They give you just what you want. All who can should be theatre goers and all should demand that nothing but clean plays be booked. It is the theatre goer who moulds the present and future of the stage.

With remarkable descriptive power in his marvelous eloquence Dr. Adams took his audience to the old theatre in London where they saw the early rendition of Shakespeare's plays, in which the actors in their primitive costumes on rough platforms devoid of scenery and with footlights of candles stuck into the necks of gin bottles, impersonated the characters in whom Shakespeare embodied every phase of the good and evil that is found in humanity's realm. In these primitive days of the stage the gallery gods occupied the pit, standing in the mud upon bare earth while the lords and ladies occupied the galleries; but the lessons taught and the impressions and influences created were wholesome and lasting.

The next theatre visited was the Empire on Broadway, New York, at an afternoon matinee when hundreds of the young girl buds of New York's four hundred smart set, sat for four hours listening to the polished epigrams that went to make up the great society play that had had a run of 399 nights in London. Those young women sitting there listening to the dialogues of endless, suggestive epigrams eagerly drinking of their poisonous undercurrent that appealed not to their higher morals was an illustration of the debauchery of the stage in its most demoralizing form.

At a Bowery theatre and at Augustin Daly's theatre the scenes were far different. The plays, players and gallery gods were rough and uncouth but the play was found to be inspiring to a loftier ideal than could ever have been conceived from any impression to be gained at the Empire's matinee. The hero's honesty and manliness, and the heroine's simple purity of character were almost riotously applauded by those barefooted gallery gods. The working girl went home from the drama to dream of the pure sweet maiden and the honest hero while the buds of the smart set went home from the society matinee to dream of the vice and lust suggested by its poisonous epigrams.

In closing Dr. Adams appealed to the Knights and their friends to stand solidly together in demanding that the theatre be kept free of immoral plays and to encourage the perpetuity of good, clean plays.

The lecture was one that appealed to the higher ideals of manhood and womanhood and the local council of the Knights of Columbus is deserving of congratulations for the magnificent success at this first effort at a public entertainment. Dr. Adams was introduced to the audience before he began his lecture by Mr. J. E. Sullivan, a member of the local council.

Among those of the Catholic clergy who attended the lecture were the following: Rev. J. P. McCloskey, of Fremont; Rev. E. P. Graham, of Shelby; Rev. J. P. Michaels, of the Cleveland Apostolate; Rev. Michael Mulvihill, of Marion; Rev. F. A. Houck, of Delphos; Rev. E. J. Ryan, of Glyndon; very Rev. Boniface Russ, of Mercer county, and Rev. Wm. Russ, of Wapakoneta.

DELPHOS

May Profit by the Clover
Leaf Strike

Shops May be Opened there as it is Impossible to Adjust Matters
With Frankfort Machinists.

For a week past the Frankfort news papers have been saying little or nothing concerning the strike situation at the Clover Leaf shops there, consequently the particulars are not generally known. Trainers are beginning to feel the effects of the tie-up, on account of the rolling stock running down, with no one at work to make repairs. A trainman who was at Frankfort the other day, says that there is not a boiler maker at work at the shops, and only a couple of machinists' helpers.

The company has endeavored to get men to take the place of the strikers, offering them more money than the striking men asked for, but when the newcomers arrived at Frankfort and noted the situation, they refused to take the places offered and kept on going. In the opinion of our informant, says the Delphos Herald, the outcome will probably be that the Delphos shops will be opened and machinists and boiler makers given an opportunity to work here. The men have a high regard for Mr. Ball, the Master Mechanic, and believe that he is doing all in his power to get an amicable adjustment of the difficulty, but it is scarcely probable that either side will yield.

The engines are getting in bad condition and some of them are wholly unfit for service, simply for the lack of necessary repairs. Delphos people have not expressed an opinion concerning the strike, for the reason that for the most part they do not understand the situation, but if there is any prospect of the Delphos shops being reopened and machinery installed here again they will hail the day of its reopening with delight.

DON'T

Like the New D. S.
Time Card.

Petition Filed

By the Board of Trade
of This City

Requesting the Company to Afford Better Accommodations.

The "One Train a Day" Schedule
Will Not Furnish Proper Facilities for Traffic in and out of Lima.

The proposed new time card, which has been prepared by the officials of the Detroit Southern railroad, is being protested against by the traveling men and retail and wholesale merchants of Lima, generally, and Secretary Numan, of the Lima Board of Trade has sent the following letter to General Manager Samuel E. Hunt at Detroit:

"Lima, Ohio, June 15, 1901.
Hon. Samuel E. Hunt,
Gen. Mgr. Detroit So. R. R.,
Detroit, Michigan.

Dear Sir:—The Lima Board of Trade and the citizens and business men of Lima wish to enter a protest against your proposed train service as it practically bars Lima from the towns along your line, north and south. It takes from our jobbers trade that belongs to Lima. The same can be said of our retail dealers.

"We trust that it is not too late to change your proposed new time card and instead of the old time card give us something better, as the business interests of Lima demands better facilities both in shipping and passenger service than we have ever had on your line, or to be more explicit, we feel as though we were being side-tracked. We would kindly ask you instead of starting your train from Napoleon in the morning to Detroit and return in the evening, that you change this schedule and have this train leave Lima in the morning to Detroit and return in the evening. We trust you will appreciate the importance of this matter and take action at once.

Yours very truly,
The Lima Board of Trade,
Wm. F. NUMAN, Secy."

E. B. MITCHELL, Pres.
Inspection of the Erie.
E. D. Underwood, the new pres.

dent, and the operating and traffic officials of the Erie railroad, yesterday completed an inspection of that property. About a month before Mr. Underwood took charge of the road, but after he had been selected as its executive head, he made a short trip over the line. It was about the time of the big snow fall, and his train was stalled for over half a day between Kent and Galien, and the trip was abandoned. Now the inspection has been renewed, this time more attention being paid to details.

It is not customary that traffic officials take in these inspections, but just now Mr. Cook is about to take charge of the passenger traffic and has to become acquainted with the territory. As there are likely to be some passenger needs develop it was thought best that they should be discovered at the time of the inspection, hence the passenger men were included.

Notes.
Engines 258 and 260, of the C. H. & D., have been turned out of the shops. The "260" will be run out of the boiler shop Monday and will be ready for the road by the first of July.

The C. H. & D. pay car was here today.
Engine 300, of the C. H. & D., is in the shops for an overhauling.

Train dispatcher F. H. Eisenhardt, of the L. E. & W., leaves tomorrow morning for Sandusky. He will go from there to Put-in-Bay and Detroit and will be met at the latter place by fireman Will Bell, of the C. H. & D., and together they will spend a couple of weeks fishing for bass at Kettle Point, Canada.

Conductor Claude Kavanaugh, of the L. E. & W., and Mrs. Kavanaugh left today to visit Buffalo and the Pan-American exposition.

Chas. Benson, a fireman on the Clover Leaf, whose home is at Delphos, had a narrow escape from being killed at Marion, Ind., Wednesday. He was on through freight and in getting on his engine while it was in motion, his hand hold slipped and he fell, almost under the wheels of the tank. The sole was torn off of one of his shoes and his foot was painfully injured. He returned to Delphos Thursday night to remain until able to resume work.

TOUCHING

Scene when the Grieved
Father Arrived.

Prayed at the Bier of His Dead Son

And Talked Earnestly to the Young Men Present—Remains of Ralph Stires Taken to Marion, Ind.

The chief of police of Marion, Ind., after receiving a message from Marshal O'Neill Thursday, concerning the death on the Penna. track of Ralph Stires, at once set about to locate his relatives, who were thought to be living in Marion. He found the young man's father, Frank Stires, a laborer, and he came to Delphos on Clover Leaf train No. 4 Thursday evening, at 8:15.

Mr. Stires is a very religious man, says the Delphos Herald, and when he was accompanied to Bergfield's morgue and recognized the remains of the dead boy as those of his son, the scene was a pitiful one. The agonized father, threw himself down on his knees at a window and prayed fervently to God that his son's soul be saved. Quite a crowd of men and boys gathered about the undertaker's office and the father of the young man talked to them earnestly, admonishing them about living the right sort of life and about leaving their homes.

Mr. Stires was almost beside himself with grief and expressed the belief that his wife would not survive the blow occasioned by the death of their son. He said that the boy was industrious and had been working in the glass factory at Marion. His health began to fail, the ultimate effect on all glass workers, and he left off work about a month ago. The boy was anxious to get work at something else and told his parents he intended leaving home in quest of employment. They succeeded in dissuading him from his purpose for some time, but on Wednesday he left home and the next they heard of him was the intelligence of his death here. Mr. Stires said that the dead boy had no bad habits and had always tried to live the right kind of life.

The remains were placed in a casket and were taken to Marion by Mr. Stires on Clover Leaf train No. 5, at 9:52 p. m.
